JUDGE CLARK SET RIGHT.

(To the Editor of The INTERIOR JOURNAL.) BARBOURVILLE, May 4 .- An article in your issue of May 4 does Judge Clark an injustice. The entire bar at Barbourville agreed that Judge Clark might go out in his campaign and they would hold his court without charge to him or the State. Not a dollar was allowed to Judge Alcorn, or Judge Faulkner, or to any of the lawyers who acted as special judge, on account of the absence of Judge Clark.

Frost Protection.

against frosts Horticultural Gleaner cautions that it ought to be understood that the heat of the fire has but little effect in diminishing the intensity of the frost, almost the entire protection being gained by the screen of smoke produced. The efficacy of smudge fires may be greatly increased by spraying them with water, thus adding vapor to the atmosphere and raising the dew point, for the dew point is reached at a higher temperature when the vapor in the air is increased. Moreover, by spraying the fires, the heat, which would otherwise establish an upward current of warm air that conducts the heat upward and beyond the space needing protection, is utilized in forming vapor and distributed through the lower stratum of air, where it is most needed. As soon as this vapor is condensed at the dew point this latent heat is set free and tends to raise the temperature. Every quart of water thus evaporated and again conducted in the surrounding air is sufficient to raise the temperature 2

THE HORSE'S FOOT.

Let It Alone-Do Not Doctor, Pare or Pad It Much.

The proper time to begin the practice of farriery is when the foals are young. Attend to their feet early and often. The writer has found them cripples at 14 days of age. Look at them carefully soon after they are foaled and continue this care, if you would have sound, serviceable horses, at short intervals, and use only the rasp on the surface of the feet to true and balance them and keep them at proper angles to the limbs they support. No knife is needed for use on the foot, for the sole, bars and frog should never be removed with the knife unless there should be thrush or injury. Then all of the diseased portions of the frog should be carefully removed with the knife and something applied to purify the parts and assist Mrs. M. M. Sandidge is convalescing. nature in healing them. The best thing the writer knows of for this purpose is matter in the care of the feet of horses is that of having the shoes removed and reset or new ones put on, as the case may require, every three weeks. This is all important, and the feet cannot be kept trued, balanced and at a proper angle to the limbs they support if the shoes are allowed to remain on too long without removal, as directed. It must be borne in mind that a foot in a healthy state of growth grows about three-eighths of an inch each month and grows irregularly, at times very irregularly.

It is an erroneous idea that the foot needs "protection," as it is called, by placing many different sorts of things besides the shoe on the bottom of it. The experience of the writer has been to him convincing proof that nature has provided all the protection that is necessary for the bottom of the foot. If this natural protection is allowed to remain called, is left undisturbed, there will anything to be applied except the shoe

The construction of the foot-the horny box-consists of an outside horn, called the wall; the bars, considered by some authorities as a continuation of the wall, the frog and the sole. Neither of these substances has either blood or nerves and is of course insensible to pain. In preparing the foot for the shoe none of these should be removed except the wall and so much of the bars and sole as the rasp will reach as it is moved around the wall at surface to true and balance the foot and place it at the proper angle to the limb. Now, if the foot is prepared for the adjustment of the shoe in this manner, there will be no room left in which to place a lot of tar

One of these will be found as harmful as the other. As far as the frog itself is ROCURED NO SOLD concerned, the steel plate will exercise a more baneful influence than the bar of the shoe, as it covers the entire foot surface. #### IMPROVED BEEKEEPING.

Advancement In Methods and Appliance Within the Last Half Century.

In 1852 the movable comb hive was given to the public, and that was a great leap in advance. It allowed the beekeeper to examine minutely just what was going on in the hive, and in many cases to apply the remedy where there was trouble.

At one time honey was obtained by smothering the bees with brimstone, then cutting out the combs, selecting some of the best that contained nothing but honey, making a grand mash of the rest and straining out the honey, more or less flavored with bee bread and dead bees. As a great improvement boxes were put on top of the hive, allowing the honey to be taken away without killing the bees. Then the honey extractor was invented, by which the honey could be thrown from the combs, leaving the latter uninjured to be returned to the hive for refilling. Even if the comb was partly filled with eggs and partly developed bees, the honey could be thrown out without disturbing the baby bees. It is, however, better to extract honey only from those combs which contain no brood. Still later section boxes came on combs to be found in the surplus boxes that held from 5 to 25 pounds. Separators were invented to force the bees to build their combs straight. Along with this came the use of comb foundation, for without foundation it would be a very difficult thing to get the bees to build straight combs in the sections.

Not only was the invention of comb foundation a great aid in securing beautiful surplus honey, but it was a great help in the brood chamber. The frames could be filled with foundation having trical power to be stored for use in heatimprinted on it the base of cells just the right size for worker brood, making it impossible for the colony to rear a large horde of useless consumers in the shape of drones.

Some think that the age of improvements in bee culture is about over, the summit having been reached. But a progressive apiarist, writing from Illinois to The National Stockman and Farmer, tells in addition to the foregothat instead of foundation having little more than the septum or middle wall, we will soon have comb as delicate as that made by the bees themselves, with as may be desired.

Potatoes In Cellars.

There are many dangers of injury to potatoes kept in cellars. That of being frozen is, when it happens, the worst, no caution is needed about that. Much greater is the likelihood that the potatoes are kept too warm, and especially and does good work at the pump. if they are piled in bins. Some warmth be no room at the bottom of the foot for ed, and these in the bin will be unless the warmth developed by sprouting the potato that creates the warmth that protects the mass as it slowly rises through it. When it is seen that potatoes are beginning to sprout, they should be removed and the larger sprouts be broken off. Those that are meant for seed ought never to be put in a mass, unless in a pit out of doors, and then they should be got out and exposed to air and light so soon as the weather begins to grow warm.—American Cultivator.

Getting Rid of Tree Stumps.

In many gardens where large trees blow down or fall in some other way tree stumps become a serious inconvenience, and the question often arises as to how best to remove them. A writer tells in Meehan's Monthly that he recently saw a case of this kind in which augur holes were being made and gun powder used to blow the huge stump into fragments. In many cases this is not a desirable practice. It is not difficult to get rid of the stump by first chopping off some of the long roots with an ax and then digging a deep hole near and with a lever rolling the stump into the hole, thus burying it. It is by no means a costly way of getting rid of an expensive trouble. Many a tough job may be lightened by a little forethought.

Japan Millets.

The Japanese millets which have been grown in this country are large and coarse. Several varieties, tested at the Massachusetts (Hatch) experiment station, grew to the height of 5 or 6 feet, and when ripe yielded at the rate of 28 to 91 bushels of seed and 2 to 61/2 tons of straw. The seed represented the total value as a cattle food, for the straw was too coarse and unpalatable to be acceptable to animals. If these varieties can ever be made useful for hay, it must be by sowing very thickly and cutting when very green and somewhat immature. Country Gentleman, authority for the foregoing, advises those who desire to test these millets to save only a small area as a trial crop.

News and Notes.

Electricity on farms has passed the experimental stage in Germany.

It is believed that prices of horses will advance in the near future.

No satisfactory remedy has been found for the worms that infest the cigars and smoking tobacco.

A simple safeguard against scab is soaking the cut tubers from 11/2 to 3 hours in from 2 to 21/2 ounces corrosive sublimate to 15 gallons of water.

At the experiment stations home grown seed potatoes generally gave slightly better results than seed from abroad, and at the southern stations the difference in favor of home grown seed was very marked. much land that otherwise refuses to

THE WINDMILL.

The Figure It Cuts In Irrigation-Homemade Appliances.

Wind, generally speaking, is abundant everywhere and should be utilized more as a motive power. Other countries are ahead of us in this respect. With proper appliances, wind power is nearly always available and effective. It is also cheap. It is the part of wisdom for farmers to make use of the wind for raising water and doing odd jobs about the farm. While we accord to scientific achievement high encomiums in the realm of steam and electrical appliances for the generation and utilization of the mighty forces so controlled, yet the windmill of the most modern manufacture is not necessarily a more effective machine than those made in the years long gone by. It is very apt to be a better looking affair, but it is doubtful if any of the fin de siecle air machines will pump more water or churn more butter than those the stage, in which a shapely cake of of simpler type. A writer in The Irrigahoney took the place of the irregular tion Age, the source of the foregoing, says: An up to date wind motor, as it is called, may cost $150 and be well worth that sum to any farmer, but it is comparatively easy for a man with "gumption" to organize a homemade windmill that will accomplish a big amount of work both by day and by night. The same breeze grinds his corn and saws his firewood, fills the water tank and irrigates the orchard or garden. We are nearing the time when all sorts of wind motors will be used to generate elecing and lighting country households and to propel farm machinery and vehicles. It is alleged that the New Jersey Insane asylum is lighted by electricity generated from a dynamo moved by a windmill of the most simple construction and very moderate cost. A farmer in Sonoma county, Cal., has queer looking windmill, which does yeoman service in filling the water tank. The machine is of simple construction, ing that it is now confidently expected but is unique. A box without top and also open at the bottom is made of upright boards 9 feet long, the inside dimensions of the box being 4 by 17 feet and 9 feet in height. This is merely At Five Dollars to Insure a Living Colt. cells three-eighth inch deep or as deep placed on the ground, and across the top, midway of the length, is placed a shaft to which the arms carrying the sails are fastened. As the sails revolve those above the box, of course, catch the force of the wind, while those below, within the box, are protected so that the wheel but it is always guarded against, so that is always in a condition of unstable equilibriuim; hence moves on and on under the force of even a slight breeze

The main object in calling attention homemade appliances is me point out to the man who could no glish Hunter's dam by Denny's Drennon, he touched by frost even when a film of buy a complete machine of modern type ice will form over water set in vessels on the floor, or the potatoes left outside that he may provide himself mainly by the heap have been frozen. It is doubt- his own labor with an effective machine of that kind. When the necessity of economy is not pressing, however, it will be found generally best to buy the most approved types of modern windmills, made largely of iron and steel Such machines are very durable, and while they may not be able to do more or better work than some types of homemade machines they give better satisfaction all around than anything which the farmer might himself make at a cost enough less to prove an incentive the sire of Joe Blackburn and Brignoli possible. If able, get one made of steel or iron; if not of these, then let it be of wood and of the best type. But if you cannot buy one of these, don't go without a windmill. Make one.

The Standard Barrel.

The New York state law passed last spring requires the barrel used in handling apples, quinces, pears and potatoes to represent a quantity equal to 100 quarts of green or dried measure. In buying or selling such articles by the barrel, it is understood that this standard is intended. When potatoes are sold by weight the quantity constituting a barrel must be 172 pounds. The law provides that no one in the state shall use barrels made for the sale of these under penalty of $5 for every such package made or used. The Ohio law is very faulty in the respect that no provision is made for penalty in case of violation. It is therefore inoperative. The statute provides that this Ohio standard barrel shall contain 311/2 gallons liquid measure, while those for the purpose of handling apples, potatoes, onions, etc., shall have a stave 281/2 inches long, with cut heads of 1718 inches diameter, and shall measure at the bulge not less than 66 inches in circumference, outside measure. This barrel is favored by neither the Apple Shippers' association nor the National League of Commission Merchants, says The American Agricultur-

Best Varieties of Wheat.

The best varieties of wheat are those adapted to the soil and climate in which they are grown. A variety that succeeds best in one locality is often a failure in another. A few of the most promising varieties of fall or winter wheats that have general adaptation to the winter wheat belt of the United States, from which the farmer can make his selections for experiment, are Fultz, Mediterranean, Amber or Red Fultz, Rudy, Jones' Winter Fife, Red Wonder, Reliable, Harvest King, Valley, Tasmania Red and Pool. These are all well known, hardy kinds, and with a very little extra expense the farmer could find out which of these varieties would be best suited to his location If some new varieties should be offered by the seedmen, test them also, in a small Lime paves the way for clover on way at first, and, if found a success, then give it a full test, advises a writer in The Prairie Farmer.

Lincoln County, Ky.

Is situated in the Southern part of th Blue Grass section, about 100 miles southeast of Louisville. The Knoxville division of the Louisville and Nashville traverses the county from East to West and the Cincinnati Southern from North to Stanford, the county seat, is situated immediately on the L. & N., nine miles from Junction City, the junction with the Cincinnati Southern. It is also the terminous of the Richmond Branch of the Kentucky Central, making the railroad facilities as good as any town in the State. Stanford is a thriving town of 2,000 inhabitants and is one of the richest in cash capital of its size anywhere It has two banks with an aggregate capital of $300,-000 and surplus of $40,000, owned almost exclusively by the people of the town and county. These stocks and the other interest bearing bonds make $100,000 in dividends distributed annually here, This makes financial matters here always easy and prevents stagnation of trade and business. The town has what is claimed to be the best water, light and ice plant. The water is pure and never, failing and is sufficient for a town of 25,000 inhabitants. There are free schools and a Male Seminary and Female College, churches of the various denominations and the community is a decidedly religious one.

There is no county in the State where lands are more productive that can be bought as cheaply. It has every advantage and will produce any agricultural product that Fayette, Bourbon, Woodford or the other central counties, where lands are held at $100 to $275 per acre. Our ands range in price from $10 to $75. The roads are splendid, there being over 160 miles of McAdamized turnpikes with iron bridges over streams of importance. More than a million of dollars have been ex tended and the county is practically out of debt.

Dix and Green Rivers, Hanging Fork Rush, Fishing, Logan and Cedar Creeks are considerable streams and with their tributaries furnish an abundance of stock water and for mill purposes. Nearly ev crops are corn, wheat, rye, hemp, tobac- sights and arm yourself, not with a co, oats, barley and every variety of grass that grows naturally or is cultivated while fruits of every variety grown in the climate are produced in great quantities and of perfect quality. Cattle, mules, hogs, sheep and fine blooded horses are raised in great numbers. Sheep husbandry can be made one of the most profitable industries.

There are 16 railway stations in the county and not a residence further than riding bridle reins in the snaffle bit 10 miles from one of them. There are al- rings. Now check the horse up pretty so 18 postoffice. The county buildings, high by putting the check rein under such as the court-house, poor-house, jail the stirrup leathers and across the mid-&c , are all substantial and Lin good re pair and but little improvement will be needed for years. Schools and churches abound throughout the county, there being 39 of the latter. The auditor's report shows that the county has advanced in wealth in the last 10 years from the 28th to the 17th in the State and the census shows that its population has increased in numbers as much as that of Boyle; Garard and Madison combined.

QUEER CREATURE.

Result of Cross Between Pony Dam and

In Europe people have more time for merely curious experimentation than we of this new country have. Mr. Cossar Ewart, professor of natural history in the University of Edinburgh, is one of the gentlemen engaged in curious ex-

Professor Ewart wished to settle the question whether the second foal of a mare by a different sire from that of the first one will bear any resemblance to the sire of the former foal. It is often contended that this will be the case.

Professor Ewart accordingly bred for the first time a fine young black pony mare to a zebra sire. The mare and her half zebra colt are shown in the illustration. The colt is black, with fawn colored stripes. If the mare's next foal, from a horse sire, shows any markings resembling zebra stripes in its coloring, then the theory of "telegony," as the notion mentioned above is called, may be considered proved.

Meantime, if there is any useful, practical outcome from Professor Ewart's experiment, it will probably lie in the direction of the possibility of breeding a horse-zebra hybrid that will stand the South African climate. It is well known that horses will not live in certain parts of South Africa, owing to the bite of the tsetse fly, which is fatal to them. As the mule is hardier than the horse, it may be that the zebra hybrid will also prove so.

The Running Walk.

I do not say all horses will rack and go a running walk, but I do say that there are very few that will not if properly handled, and they usually get better as they get older if ridden properly. have never seen one of our famous Kentucky trainers with a horse that he could not make rack and stick to it in

My advice is to take the horse out under the saddle at night on some quiet ery farm has never failing springs. The street where he will see no unusual stick, but the patience of Job, and ride him at the trot or canter until he has the "wire edge" off, then pull him down to a walk, and if he is not ready to walk keep riding him until he is. Out of a walk urge him a little faster, but not into a trot. Keep him there night after night, and he is a running walker or I will quit the business. To get him to rack and stick to it get a side check, open bridle such as is used by trotting horse men and put a pair of dle of the saddle and mount. You have your horse's head pretty high and nose out, but no matter. Take a keen whip, but do not use it much. Start slow, and with a little play of your reins, patience and a light shoe forward your horse will rack. He may not the first time, but he will if you continue. Do not fret him; be patient. If he does mean tricks, laugh and thank him, but do not strike him. Rarely do that except to give him animation sufficient to try to do the thing you are endeavoring to get him to do and then simply remind him he is not at his best. Ride often, quietly and

A Roadster.

Horsemen are beginning to realize that a good roadster of an accepted type, properly broken and bitted, is worth more than a poor track performer-in fact, that such animals are very scarce and that their owners may ask and receive their own prices for them.

There is abundance of the very best material in the American trotter from What is wanted is an animal that can travel right along on the road pulling any vehicle from the light buggy or road wagon to a roundabout or surrey. He should be able to do a turn at a three minute gait when required, show style and action without weight or other artificial devices, should possess a true, open gait without booting of any sort, and last, but not least, he should be even tempered, level headed and properly bitted. There are not many such horses to be had, and therein lies the breeder's opportunity.

Thumps In Hogs.

You ask what to do for it. I say feed your brood sow differently. If you don't, you are sure to have that disease which has taken off so many thousand pigs. If you have the disease, sometimes it is good to apply coal oil on the stomach of the pig, bathing him thoroughly and perhaps giving him a little. Another good thing is to give the pigs exercise, and if they won't take it themselves go COMFORT.—No smoke, dust or cinders on Queen & Crescent Route limited trains South. Rock ballast. Superb trains with every comfort. Fast time and the short line from Cincinnati.

CALIFORNIA.

SOME POINTERS FOR THOSE EXPECTING TO GO ON THE JUNE EXCURSION.

Capt. Frank Harris, of Lebanon, who is getting up the excursion, writes: The party can have their choice of the two Southern routes for the going trip, viz: Either via New Orleans, San Antonio, ElPaso and Los Angeles; or via Memphis, Fort Worth and ElPaso; stop-over privileges beginning at El-Paso and points beyond. At ElPaso a stop should be made. It is a typical frontier city, full of interest to the visitor, and there an opportunity is afforded to cross the Rio Grande and make the acquaintance of the custom officials and get a glimpse of our Mexican neighbors, mail letters home, etc.

From ElPaso to Los Angeles is a stretch of country so novel and different from anything yet encountered, there is no disposition to stop, and the ever changing variety of panorama is best enjoyed as it is reeled off to you through the car window. Arriving at ried from wire to wire and soon covered, Los Angeles you have absorbed suffi- so that at a little distance the vines ciently of the wonders of Texas, New Mexico and Arizona to enjoy a rest and there in that beautiful city (City of the Angels) three or four days can be spent with profit and pleasure as our inclinations dictate. Passadena, the garden of flowers, Redlands, Riverside, San Barnardino, famous for their orange, apricot and peach orchards, Santo Monica, on the beach of the Pacific Ocean, with its magnificent hotels, a fashionable summer resort, where thousands are seen daily enjoying the surf baths, is 3 00 one of the most elegant and delightful places to while away an idle afternoon. And again, the trip from San Pedro to Catalina Island-25 miles out in the Pacific Ocean-is a fitting climax to all that has gone before. The charm and enchantment that belongs to this little trip, as you steam away on the "Hermosa," thrills you through and through.

"You gaze into space with wry grimace, Forgetting the world's mad strife, Heave and sigh as the waves roll high,

Here life's cares are dismissed,

And revel in the joys of life." The question of whether "school keeps or not' no longer concerns you. If the liquid distillment that left Lebanon with you, in your pocket flask, by some oversight has not all evaporated, this alone may prevent you from forgetting Kentucky. All these scenes and more are in easy distance from Los Angeles, and can be reached at small expense. Leaving Los Angeles for San Francisco, a change of scene is furnished in crossing the mountains, which is accomplished by a feat of civil engineering, known as the Loop. Upon ar-DR. W. B. #### UTILIZING THE SWEET PEA. A Pretty Hedge - Fragrant Window Screen.

Sweet Pea Fountain.

Everybody may not know that an attractive as well as effective hedge may be obtained with sweet peas in a shorter time than with most other plants. A florist in The Ladies' Home Journal cites as an example a hedge 90 feet long used to separate the clothes drying space from the more attractive grounds. Abundant support was furnished in an arrangement of cedar poles and telegraph wire, the former being planted as a tripod at each end of the rows, with the wire attached at the foot of the outside poles and where the poles crossed. The wires were drawn tight and supported at regular distances for the vines to attach themselves, fine linen twine being car-

Following are additional

A peculiarity of sweet peas is that the higher they are trained the more fading blossoms are removed before they can go to seed a constant succession of bloom is secured. A pretty garden device is a sweet pea fountain, which is produced by planting a tall upright post firmly in the ground and attaching the skeleton of an umbrella to it at the top. The vines planted at its base will climb and droop from the edge of the umbrella, the unfolding blossoms and sprays disposing themselves in such fashion that

As a winter plant the sweet pea is not so satisfactory as one could wish. It has been sometimes tried in a hanging basket and coaxed into moderate bloom amid winter snows, but it does not take kindly to such conditions.

A Trio of Injurious Insects.

At the forty-second annual meeting of the Western New York Horticultural society three insects injurious to nursery stock received attention: First, the peach tree borer, for which no preventive is known. The only remedy so far discovered is to dig the borers out in June or July. Second, woolly aphis, or plant lice. The remedy for this is kerosene emulsion used on the limbs and kerosene oil on the roots. Third, the San Jose scale. This disease is present in New York, Delaware, Maryland and Ohio, also on Long Island. Whale oil soap, two pounds to a gallon of water, will kill all it covers, but some are certain to be missed, and Mr. Willard and others urged the necessity of the utmost care and watchfulness for this pest.

In Your Planting.

Bear in mind that all large, quick growing plants such as cannas, castor bean plants, caladiums, musas, large leaved solanums, etc., require generous doses of manure-in fact, you can hardly overdo it. Gardening says common sense will tell you that any plant that reaches the size and robustness that any of the above will in one season if well grown must have a well filled storehouse of nutritious food to draw upon.

Fruit Notes.

The Newport muskmelon is described as the highest flavored, most luscious green fleshed variety grown, and remarkably early.

The Timbrell strawberry is a fine late pistillate variety.

Lovett's Best blackberry is generally hardy and bears a profusion of large berries that ripen early in the season. Anemone Whirlwind, a semidouble form of the white Japan anemone, continues to grow in favor. Clothilde Soupert is recommended by eastern florists as one of the best roses for bedding. A popular crimson variety for forcing is the Meteor rose.

The Golden Gate rose is a free bloomer. The Greenville apple is a promising sort produced from seed of the fall Maiden Blush.

GONE AND FORGOTTEN.

Few Members of the Cabinet Make Name That Live Long.

"Can you name the members of President Garfield's cabinet?" asks the Washington Post, "Do you recall the distinguished gentlemen that made up President Hayes' official family?" And then it goes on to answer its own ques-

The career of Timothy O. Howe of Wisconsin is an instance. He was a veteran senator for many years from the Badger State and a most efficient postmaster general under President Arthur. Several of the Wisconsin delegation in congress were asked the other day about General Howe's career and acknowledged that it was quite unknown to them, except in a general way. William Windom of Minnesota, who died so tragically at a dinner in New York, was secretary of the treasury under Garfield. Robert T. Lincoln of Chicago was secretary of war and the only member of Garfield's cabinet that Arthur retained. Thomas L. James of New York, Garfield's postmaster general, became president of the Lincoln National bank and the Lincoln Safe Deposit company of New York.

Wayne MacVeagh was Garfield's attorney general. He went upon the stump for Cleveland and was subsequently appointed minister to Italy.

Mr. Arthur's secretary of the navy and secretary of the interior, Senators Chandler and Teller, have by no means waned since holding cabinet office.

Of the members of Cleveland's first cabinet, Bayard is embassador to England. Manning's sad death from overwork in the treasury department is often recalled. Charles S. Fairchild of New York, who succeeded him, is president of a trust company. William C. Endicott, who was secretary of war, still lives at Salem, Mass. William C. Whitney, secretary of the navy under Cleveland, is engaged in caring for his great fortune.

Vilas, Cleveland's first postmaster general, is senator from Wisconsin, and his successor, when Vilas became secretary of the interior, was Don M. Dickinson of Michigan. A. H. Garland, who was attorney general, is a prominent attorney in Washington.

At the New Jersey state horticultural convention S. A. Miller spoke on peach culture, which, he avers, gives handsome returns when intelligently carried on and is suited to a man of moderate BARBEE & CASTLEMAN. means. First avoid a soil rich in nitrogen, as this will grow the trees too rank and will bear very little fruit. Plow very deep and pulverize thoroughly before setting. Set 16 feet each way, profusely they will bloom, and if all trim the tree to a straight switch, trimming to a good live bud, without regard to the length of tree. When buds start, keep all rubbed off except three strong buds at top to form a head. Cul- STANFORD, tivate thoroughly all summer with wheel or cutaway harrow, to keep mellow and moist. He recommended the Crawford and Pride of Franklin as the best varieties. Many make a mistake in U manuring a peach orchard with an excess of stable manure, as it contains too much nitrogen, and the fruit will not much nitrogen, and the fruit will not color up well; besides the trees will Farm Wagons Pleasgrow too rank at the expense of fruit. The soil must be well drained.

In the Fruit Orchard.

Alternating trees of different varieties of the same family of fruits has been found of great advantage. Some varieties of the peach and plum are very shy bearers when planted by themselves, but when put next to a tree of a different variety of peach or plum they become very fruitful. This crossing the pollen of variety upon the flowers of another of the same family infuses vigor into all kinds of fruits, just as infusing new blood invigorates a flock or herd of animals. - Exchange.

American Horticultural Society.

The objects of the American Horticultural society, recently organized in New York city, are to bring about closer relations between the existing horticultural societies throughout the horticultural societies throughout the companies doing business in Kentucky and solicit patronage of property holders in Stanford Rates same as other companies doing business here country and to supply a working organization through which matters of national rather than local interest may receive attention. John M. Hunter is president and James I. Donlan, New York city, is secretary.

Protect the Robins.

The cause of the robin has been championed by some California horticulturists. At a meeting of horticulturists of San Jose a resolution was made and adopted favoring the protection of robins from bird shooters because they devour so many insects.
